Subject: Proposal for a Directive of the European Parliament and of the Council amending Council Directive 89/552/EEC: On the coordination of certain provisions laid down by law, regulation or administrative action in Member States concerning the pursuit of television broadcasting activities:

Comparative table following EP's first reading

In view of the Audiovisual Working Party meeting of 15 January 2007, delegations will find attached a comparative table, setting out the European Parliament first reading amendments side by side with the Commission's proposal and the Council's general approach.

The comparative table presents plain text, indicating provisions of the Commission's proposal, bold italics indicating amendments by the European Parliament, and changes proposed in the general approach set out in bold.

It is recalled that as a matter of principle the Council's general approach does not cover the recitals. Nevertheless, the recitals which form an actual part of this Council's general approach, have been reproduced accordingly in the annexed comparative table.

Amendment 1 (Cion accepts in principle)

Recital 1

Commission Proposal (doc. 15983/05)	EP first reading amendments	Council's general approach (doc. 15277/06)
(1) Directive 89/552/EEC coordinates certain provisions laid down by law, regulation or administrative action in Member States concerning the pursuit of broadcasting activities. However, new technologies in the transmission of audiovisual media services call for adaptation of the regulatory framework to take account of the impact of structural change and technological developments on business models, especially the financing of commercial broadcasting, and to ensure optimal conditions of competitiveness for Europe's information technologies and its media industries and services.	(1) Directive 89/552/EEC coordinates certain provisions laid down by law, regulation or administrative action in Member States concerning the pursuit of broadcasting activities. However, new technologies in the transmission of audiovisual media services call for adaptation of the regulatory framework to take account of the impact of structural change, the spread of information and communication technologies (ICT) and technological developments on business models, especially the financing of commercial broadcasting, and to ensure optimal conditions of competitiveness and legal certainty for Europe's information technologies and its media industries and services, as well as respect for cultural and linguistic diversity. The laws, regulations and administrative measures should be as unobtrusive and simple as possible to allow new and existing audiovisual media services to develop and flourish, thus allowing for job creation, economic growth, innovation and cultural diversity to be nurtured.

Amendment 2 (Cion rejects)

Recital 2

Commission Proposal (doc. 15983/05)	EP first reading amendments	Council's general approach (doc. 15277/06)
(2) The laws, regulations and administrative measures in Member States concerning the pursuit of television broadcasting activities are already coordinated by Directive 89/552/ECC, whereas the rules applicable to activities such as on-demand audiovisual media services contain disparities, some of which may impede the free movement of these services within the European Union and may distort competition within the common market. In particular, Article 3(4) of Directive 2000/31/EC provides that Member States may derogate from the country of origin principle for specific public policy reasons.	(2) The laws, regulations and administrative measures in Member States concerning the pursuit of television broadcasting activities are already coordinated by Directive 89/552/ECC, whereas the rules applicable to activities such as on-demand media services are only coordinated as regards their distribution by Directive 2002/21/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 7 March 2002 on a common regulatory framework for electronic communications networks and services<sup>1</sup> (the Framework Directive) and as regards trading by Directive 2000/31/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 8 June 2000 on certain legal aspects of information society services, in particular electronic commerce, in the Internal Market (Directive on electronic commerce)<sup>2</sup>; the content of the new audiovisual media services is still governed by the legislation of the Member States. Some of these disparities impede the free movement of these services within the European Union and may distort competition within the common market.

Recital 3

Commission Proposal (doc. 15983/05)	EP first reading amendments	Council's general approach (doc. 15277/06)
(3) The importance of audiovisual media services for societies, democracy and culture justifies the application of specific rules to these services.	(3) Audiovisual media services are as much cultural goods as they are economic goods. Their growing importance for societies, democracy – in particular by ensuring freedom of information, diversity of opinion and media pluralism – education and culture justifies the application of specific rules to these services, and the enforcement of those rules, notably in order to preserve the fundamental rights and freedoms laid down in the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union, the European Convention for Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms and the United Nations Covenant on Civil and Political Freedoms, and in order to ensure the protection of minors and vulnerable and disabled people.

Amendment 4 (Cion accepts in principle)

Recital 3 A (new)

Commission Proposal (doc. 15983/05)	EP first reading amendments	Council's general approach (doc. 15277/06)
	(3a) In its resolutions of 1 December 2005 and 4 April 2006 on the Doha Round and on the WTO Ministerial Conferences, the European Parliament calls for basic public services, such as health, education and audiovisual services to be excluded from liberalisation under the GATS negotiations. In its resolution of 27 April 2006, Parliament supports the UNESCO Convention on the Protection and Promotion of the Diversity of Cultural Expressions, which states in particular that ‘cultural activities, goods and services have both an economic and a cultural nature, because they convey identities, values and meanings, and must therefore not be treated as solely having commercial value’.

Amendment 5 (Cion rejects)

Recital 3 B (new)

Commission Proposal (doc. 15983/05)	EP first reading amendments	Council's general approach (doc. 15277/06)
	(3b) Media education should serve to provide citizens with the wherewithal to bring critical interpretation to bear on, and use, the ever-expanding volume of information with which they are assailed, as laid down in Council of Europe Recommendation 1466 (2000). Helped by a learning process of this kind, citizens will be in a position to formulate messages and select the media best suited to impart them and thus become able to exercise their right to freedom of information and expression to the full.

Recital 4

Commission Proposal (doc. 15983/05)	EP first reading amendments	Council's general approach (doc. 15277/06)

Recital 5

Commission Proposal (doc. 15983/05)	EP first reading amendments	Council's general approach (doc. 15277/06)
(5) Legal uncertainty and a non-level playing field exist for European companies delivering audiovisual media services as regards the legal regime governing emerging on-demand services, it is therefore necessary, both to avoid distortions of competition and to improve legal certainty, to apply at least a basic tier of coordinated rules to all audiovisual media services.	(5) Legal uncertainty and a non-level playing field exist for European companies delivering audiovisual media services as regards the legal regime governing emerging on-demand services, it is therefore necessary, in order to avoid distortions of competition, to improve legal certainty, to help complete the internal market and to facilitate the emergence of a single information area, to apply to all audiovisual media services, both linear and non-linear, irrespective of whether they are transmitted on the basis of a set programme schedule or on demand, at least a basic tier of coordinated rules aimed at guaranteeing, inter alia, a sufficient level of protection of minors, the vulnerable and the disabled and respect for fundamental rights and freedoms . Recital 7

Commission Proposal (doc. 15983/05)	EP first reading amendments	Council's general approach (doc. 15277/06)
(7) The Commission has adopted the initiative “i2010: European Information Society” to foster growth and jobs in the information society and media industries. i2010 is a comprehensive strategy designed to encourage the development of the digital economy, against the background of the convergence of information and media services, networks and devices, by modernising and deploying all EU policy instruments: regulatory instruments, research and partnerships with industry. The Commission has committed itself to creating a consistent internal market framework for the information society and media services by modernising the legal framework for audiovisual services, starting with a Commission proposal in 2005 to modernise the Television without Frontiers Directive.	(7) The Commission has adopted the initiative “i2010: European Information Society” to foster growth and jobs in the information society and media industries. i2010 is a comprehensive strategy designed to encourage the production of European content, the development of the digital economy and the uptake of ICT, against the background of the convergence of information and media services, networks and devices, by modernising and deploying all EU policy instruments: regulatory instruments, research and partnerships with industry. Recital 8

(8) On 6 September 2005, the European Parliament adopted a Resolution on the application of Articles 4 and 5 of Directive 89/552/EEC, as amended by Directive 97/36/EC, for the period 2001-2002 (Weber Report). In addition, it in principle supports the general approach of basic rules for all audiovisual media services and additional rules for linear (“broadcasting”) services.	(8) On 6 September 2005, the European Parliament adopted a Resolution on the application of Articles 4 and 5 of Directive 89/552/EEC, as amended by Directive 97/36/EC, for the period 2001-2002 (Weber Report). This Resolution – like the resolutions of 4 September 2003 and 22 April 2004 – calls for the adaptation of the existing Television without Frontiers Directive to structural changes and technological developments while fully respecting its underlying principles, which remain valid. In addition, it in principle supports the general approach of basic rules for all audiovisual media services and additional rules for linear (“broadcasting”) services.

Commission Proposal (doc. 15983/05)	EP first reading amendments	Council's general approach (doc. 15277/06)
(9) This Directive enhances compliance with fundamental rights and is fully in line with the principles recognised by the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union, in particular Article 11 thereof. In this regard, this Directive does not in any way prevent Member States from applying their constitutional rules relating to freedom of the press and freedom of expression in the media.	(9) This Directive enhances compliance with fundamental rights and seeks to incorporate the principles, rights and freedoms laid down in the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union, in particular Article 11 thereof. In this context, Member States should set up one or more independent regulatory authorities, if they have not already done so. Such authorities should act as the guarantors of fundamental rights in the provision of audiovisual media services. Member States may decide whether it is appropriate to have a single regulatory authority for all audiovisual media services or several separate authorities for each category of service (linear or non-linear). Furthermore, this Directive does not in any way prevent Member States from applying their constitutional rules or regulatory arrangements relating to freedom of the press and freedom of expression in the media.

Amendment 14 (Cion accepts)

Recital 10

Commission Proposal (doc. 15983/05)	EP first reading amendments	Council's general approach (doc. 15277/06)
(10) Because of the introduction of a minimum set of harmonised obligations in Articles 3c to 3h and in the areas harmonised in this Directive Member States can no longer derogate from the country of origin principle with regard to protection of minors and fight against any incitement to hatred on grounds of race, sex, religion or nationality, and violation of human dignity concerning individual persons or protection of consumers as provided in Article 3(4) of Directive 2000/31/EC of the European Parliament and the Council.	(10) The requirement that the originating Member State should ensure compliance with national law as coordinated by this Directive is sufficient under Community law to ensure free movement of audiovisual media services without secondary control on the same grounds in the receiving Member State; however, the receiving Member State may exceptionally and under specific conditions, derogate from this requirement in the event of serious violations of Articles 22(1), 22(2), 3d or 3e of Directive 89/552/EEC, taking into account the fact that respect for fundamental rights forms an integral part of the general principles of Community law.

Recital 11

Commission Proposal (doc. 15983/05)	EP first reading amendments	Council's general approach (doc. 15277/06)
(11) Directive 2002/21/EC of the European Parliament and the Council according to its Article 1(3) is without prejudice to measures taken at Community or national level, to pursue general interest objectives, in particular relating to content regulation and audiovisual policy.	(11) Directive 2002/21/EC (the Framework Directive) created a uniform legal framework for all transmission networks and services, but according to its Article 1(3) is without prejudice to measures taken at Community or national level, to pursue general interest objectives, in particular relating to content regulation and audiovisual policy with a view to separating the regulation of transmission from the regulation of content.

Amendment 16 (Cion accepts)

Recital 11 A (new)

Commission Proposal (doc. 15983/05)	EP first reading amendments	Council's general approach (doc. 15277/06)
	(11a) Directive 2003/31/EC (the eCommerce Directive) contains no specific substantive provisions governing audiovisual media services and leaves the Member States the option of derogating from the country of origin principle on specific matters of public policy on a case-by-case basis and in accordance with a notification procedure. By imposing additional minimum standards for non-linear audiovisual media services with a view to the protection of minors and the promotion of cultural diversity, this Directive extends the field of harmonised Community law. To that extent this Directive builds on the eCommerce Directive in these areas to cover a specific subset of non-linear audiovisual services which are of particular importance for society and are characterised by their cultural dimension. For these services the degree of coordination of national rules is higher and the internal market is more complete.	(footnote 9)  Directive 2000/31/EC on certain aspects of information society services, in particular electronic commerce, in the Internal Market, applies fully except as otherwise provided for in this Directive. In the event of a conflict between a provision of Directive 2000/31/EC and a provision of this Directive, the provisions of this Directive should prevail, unless otherwise provided for in this Directive.

Recital 13

Commission Proposal (doc. 15983/05)	EP first reading amendments	Council's general approach (doc. 15277/06)
(13) The definition of audiovisual media services covers all audiovisual mass-media services, whether scheduled or on-demand. However, its scope is limited to services as defined by the Treaty and therefore covers any form of economic activity, including that of public service enterprises, but does not cover non-economic activities, such as purely private websites.	(13) The definition of audiovisual media services covers all audiovisual mass-media services the content of which is suitable for television broadcasting irrespective of the delivery platform, whether the editorial approach and responsibility of the provider are reflected in a programme schedule or in a selection catalogue. However, its scope is limited to services as defined by the Treaty and therefore covers any form of economic activity, including that of public service enterprises. The economic element must be significant to justify the application of the Directive. Economic activities are normally provided for remuneration, intended for a certain period and characterised by a certain continuity; the assessment of the economic element is subject to the criteria and rules of the country of origin. Accordingly, the definition of audiovisual media services does not cover non-economic activities which are normally not provided for remuneration, such as weblogs and other user-generated content or any form of private correspondence, such as e-mails and private websites.	(13) The definition of audiovisual media services covers only audiovisual media services, whether scheduled or on-demand, which are mass media, that is, which are intended for reception by, and which could have a clear impact on, a significant proportion of the general public. The scope is limited to services as defined by the Treaty and therefore covers any form of economic activity, including that of public service enterprises, but does not cover activities which are primarily non-economic and which are not in competition with television broadcasting, such as private websites and services consisting of the provision or distribution of audiovisual content generated by private users for the purposes of sharing and exchange within communities of interest. The definition excludes all services not intended for the distribution of audiovisual content, i.e. where any audiovisual content is merely incidental to the service and not its principal purpose.

Recital 13 A (new)

Commission Proposal (doc. 15983/05)	EP first reading amendments	Council's general approach (doc. 15277/06)
		It is characteristic of on-demand services that they are "television-like", i.e. that they compete for the same audience as television broadcasts and the nature and the means of access to the service would lead the user reasonably to expect regulatory protection within the scope of this Directive. On this basis in order to prevent disparities as regards free movement and competition, the notion of programme should be interpreted in a dynamic way taking into account developments in television broadcasting.

Amendment 213 (Cion accepts)

Recital 14

Commission Proposal (doc. 15983/05)	EP first reading amendments	Council's general approach (doc. 15277/06)
(14) The definition of audiovisual media services covers mass media in their function to inform, entertain and educate, but excludes any form of private correspondence, such as e-mails sent to a limited number of recipients. The definition also excludes all services not intended for the distribution of audiovisual content, i.e. where any audiovisual content is merely incidental to the service and not its principal purpose. The definition also excludes all services whose principal purpose is not the distribution of audiovisual content, i.e. where any audiovisual content is merely incidental to the service. Examples include websites that contain audiovisual elements only in an ancillary manner, such as animated graphical elements, small advertising spots or information related to a product or non-audiovisual service. It also excludes games of chance involving a stake representing a sum of money, including lotteries and betting, provided that their main purpose is not that of distributing audiovisual content. Further examples are online games and search engines, as long as the principal purpose of the audiovisual media service is not reached.	Footnote 4  (15a) This directive does not cover services, such as gambling services and on-line games, the principal purpose of which is not the provision of programmes.

Recital 14 A (new)

Commission Proposal (doc. 15983/05)	EP first reading amendments	Council's general approach (doc. 15277/06)
	(14a) Television broadcasting services, i.e. linear services, currently include in particular analogue and digital television, live streaming, webcasting and near-video-on-demand, whereas video-on-demand, for example, is one of the on-demand, i.e. non-linear services. For linear audiovisual media services or television programmes which are also offered on a live or deferred basis as non-linear services by the same media service provider, the requirements of this Directive are deemed to be met by the linear transmission. However, where different kinds of services are offered in parallel, without one part being clearly subordinate to another, this Directive should still apply to those distinguishable parts of the service which fulfil all the criteria of an audiovisual media service.

		(footnote 6) In the context of television broadcasting the notion of simultaneous viewing also entails quasi simultaneous viewing because of the variations in the short timelag which occurs between the transmission and the reception of the broadcast due to technical reasons inherent in the transmission process.

It is also essential in order to ensure the free flow of information and audiovisual programmes in the internal market. The application of this principle cannot exclude a reference to the criteria of the origin of the resources of a service with a view to ensuring the conditions for fair competition.

For co-regulation and self-regulation, the Interinstitutional Agreement on Better Law-making<sup>1</sup> provides agreed definitions, criteria and procedures. Experience showed that co- and self-regulation instruments implemented in accordance with different legal traditions of Member States can play an important role in delivering a high level of consumer protection.	(25) In its Communication to the Council and the European Parliament on Better Regulation for Growth and Jobs in the European Union the Commission stressed that a careful analysis on the appropriate regulatory approach, in particular whether legislation is preferable for the relevant sector and problem, or whether alternatives such as co-regulation or self regulation should be considered. Furthermore, experience showed that both co- and self-regulation instruments implemented in accordance with different legal traditions of Member States can play an important role in delivering a high level of consumer protection. Measures aimed at achieving public interest objectives in the emerging audiovisual media services sector will be more effective if they are taken with the active support of the service providers themselves. Thus self regulation constitutes a type of voluntary initiative, which enables the economic operators, social partners, non-governmental organisations or associations to adopt common guidelines amongst themselves and for themselves.	(25) [...] Experience in the audiovisual sector has shown that co- and self-regulation instruments implemented in accordance with the different legal traditions of Member States can play an important role in delivering a high level of consumer protection. Without prejudice to Member States' formal obligations regarding transposition, this Directive encourages the use of such instruments. This neither obliges Member States to set up co- and/or self-regulatory regimes nor disrupts or jeopardises current co- or self-regulatory initiatives which are already in place within Member States and which are working effectively.

	Member States should, in accordance with their different legal traditions, recognise the effective role which effective self-regulation can play as a complement to the legislation and judicial and/or administrative mechanisms in place and its useful contribution to the achievement of the objectives of this Directive. However, while self-regulation might be a complementary method of implementing certain provisions of this Directive, it cannot constitute a substitute for the obligation of the national legislator. Co-regulation gives, in its minimal form, a "legal link" between self-regulation and the national legislator in accordance with the legal traditions of the Member States.

Commission Proposal (doc. 15983/05)	EP first reading amendments	Council's general approach (doc. 15277/06)
	(25a) The generic term “co-regulation” covers regulatory instruments which are based on cooperation between State bodies and self-regulating bodies, and vary widely in terms of their designations and structures at national level. The actual form which such instruments take reflects the specific tradition of media regulation in the individual Member States. What co-regulation systems have in common is that tasks and objectives which were originally the preserve of the State are achieved in cooperation with the players affected by regulation. Designated or authorised by the State, it is for the participants themselves to guarantee the achievement of the regulatory objective. In every case the systems are founded on a State legal framework which lays down instructions as to content, organisation and procedures. On this basis, the interested parties create further criteria, rules and instruments, compliance with which they themselves monitor. Self-regulation as thus defined enables specialist knowledge to be exploited directly for administrative tasks, and bureaucratic procedures to be avoided. It is necessary for all, or at least the most influential, players to participate in or recognise the system. Co-regulation operates by combining instructions to the interested parties with opportunities for State intervention should those instructions not be carried out.

Article 88(1) of Directive 2001/83/EC which prohibits advertising to the general public of certain medicine products applies, as provided in paragraph 5 of the same Article, without prejudice to Article 14 of Directive 89/552/EEC; the relation between Directive 2001/83/EC and Directive 89/552/EEC should remain the same after the entry into force of the present Directive.	(41) It is necessary to ensure coherence between this Directive and existing Community law. 	Article 88(1) of Directive 2001/83/EC which prohibits advertising to the general public of certain medicine products applies, as provided in paragraph 5 of the same Article, without prejudice to Article 14 of Directive 89/552/EEC; the relation between Directive 2001/83/EC and Directive 89/552/EEC should remain the same after the entry into force of the present Directive. Furthermore, this Directive is without prejudice to Regulation .../... of the European Parliament and of the Council on nutrition and health claims made on foods.

(44) The limitation on the amount of daily advertising was largely theoretical. The hourly limit is more important since it also applies during prime time. Therefore the daily limit should be abolished, while the hourly limit should be maintained for advertising and teleshopping spots; also the quantitative restrictions on the time allowed for teleshopping or advertising channels seem no longer justified given increased consumer choice. However, the limit of 20% of advertising per clock hour remains applicable, except for more time consuming forms of advertising such as telepromotions and teleshopping windows that require more time on account of their inherent characteristics and method of presentation.	(44) The limitation on the amount of daily advertising was largely theoretical. 	It should, furthermore, meet specific requirements. The editorial responsibility and independence of the media service provider must not be jeopardised.
